Activities
Saturday, July 19 (12:00-1:30 p.m.): Welcome Luncheon where members can meet others from their region. Cost: $50 per person. Menu: Baby Greens Salad, Parmesan Crusted Chicken, Bourbon Bread Pudding (spouses/guests welcome).
Saturday, July 19 (4:00-7:00 p.m.): Exhibit Opening Reception where attendees can get a first look at what our exhibitors have to offer.
Sunday, July 20: the annual Décéte will be held where members can try their hand at this uniquely French discipline.

Activities and Excursions
Pre-convention Excursion to Jean Lafitte Museum and Swamp Tour (Friday, July 18, 2:45 p.m. – 7:45 p.m.)

The visit begins with a 25-minute movie featuring the history of Jean Lafitte and the fight to preserve the wetlands. Take a guided walk through historical artifacts. A local Cajun guide leads a nature walk through a bald cypress swamp. Finally, a 45-minute swamp tour. Get up close and personal with the habitants and a few alligators! Cost: $60 per person, includes transportation from the hotel and entrance fees (pre-registration required; spouses/guests welcome).

Walking Tour (Sunday, July 20 and Monday July 21, 4:30-6:30 p.m.)

Post-Conference Plantation Excursion (Tuesday, July 22, 12:30 a.m.-6:00 p.m.)

The trip starts with a narrated scenic drive out of New Orleans along the shores of Lake Pontchartrain. The first stop is a guided tour of Oak Alley Plantation, a Louisiana jewel of Greek Revival architecture. Guides in period costumes will bring to life the stories of generations who lived here. They will share details of this mansion’s history. Participants can walk around under a spectacular canopy of 28 giant live oaks around the mansion.

At Laura, the Creole Plantation, the guided tour will transport you into the charmed yet tragic lives of four generations of Creole owners and their slaves. After touring the Maison principale, the visit moves to the grounds, surrounded by sugarcane fields and twelve buildings on the National Register of Historic Places, winding into the gardens: the formal Jardin français, the kitchen garden, and Laura’s new BananaLand. The tour concludes inside one of the slave cabins where sugarcane workers lived until 1977 and where the ancient west-African folktales of “Compère Lapin” were recorded. Parts of the excursion in French. Cost: $100 (min. of 20 participants needed; pre-registration required; spouses and guests welcome).

Academic Credit

We will again offer one graduate credit via Webster University in St. Louis (see requirements on page 12) for attendance at the convention ($165 for one-hour graduate credit, see registration form pages 17-18).

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

Laissez les bons temps rouler!
As I write this message, the people of New Orleans are celebrating Mardi Gras. This July Mardi Gras 2014 will have come and gone but not les bons temps. When you read this page, go to [www.frenchteachers.org], and register to enjoy les bons temps during the annual AATF Convention. You can attend workshops and sessions from July 19-22, but come early and stay late to take a swamp tour, go on a plantation visit, and see some hidden treasures of New Orleans. Denis Degagné and Zachary Richard will open the event on July 19 and tell us about the current state of French in Louisiana. Both work diligently for the preservation of French in Louisiana. You may remember Zachary Richard from Atlanta, where he entertained us with Cajun music. In fact, he is the premier Cajun singer and songwriter, and his fame has spread far beyond North America. Our colleagues have also planned enriching experiences for us as they share les multiples visages de la langue française. From language to literature, film to foreign travel, the sessions offer something to everyone. Our colleagues from Saguenay/Chicoutimi are preparing a preview of our 2015 visit to their special corner of Quebec. You can begin to plan for yet another fascinating trip to a hidden but vibrant corner of la Francophonie.

Of course, you continue to value le français, langue à multiples visages in your teaching and your promotion of French. A recent article purporting to minimize the importance of French in today’s world evoked numerous comments on the diversity and utility of French. Not only does French take on the visage of Moliere and Victor Hugo, it lives in the Francophone world, among some of the rapidly growing economies in African countries. After the European Union, the U.S. is the top investment destination for France. Canada, our bilingual neighbor to the north, is the number one trading partner for most of our states. France remains one of the most influential and stable members of the European Union, and is a leader in science and technology. And what is the top tourist destination? Paris, of course! See the graph on page 8 which clearly demonstrates that French is still a vital global language.

The AATF offers you many ideas for the promotion and defense of French. Go to the Web site at [www.frenchteachers.org] to Resources, then Advocacy, and you will find more ideas than you can ever use. Many states have developed a page highlighting the history and current status of French in that state. You will be surprised at all the information that is available. It is up to us to highlight these facts to colleagues, administrators, students, and their parents. Do you have graduates who are using French in their careers, or who work for French companies? Ask them for a statement on how the study of French has fostered their success. Share it with others. You will find more positive stories than you think.

By the time you read this message, your students will have completed the Grand Concours 2014 and will be awaiting their results. Highlight the fact that the Grand Concours enrolls approximately 100,000 students across the U.S. and in American schools abroad. It also uses materials similar to Advanced Placement. The National French Contest is the only language test open to elementary school students, and FLES students show great aptitude, since childhood is the best time to begin the study of another language. This is the time to publicize your winners—in your school, in your local newspaper, and wherever possible. Visibility will prove that French is alive and well.

Would you like to see your French program on the AATF Web site? When you come to New Orleans this summer, you will learn the details of our new initiative for Exemplary French Programs. We will announce it at the general session and follow up at one of the regular sessions. We are looking for programs that are growing or stable, ones that offer a good sequence of French, whose students are engaged in multiple activities and whose teachers are involved in the AATF and its opportunities. If you are not able to attend the New Orleans convention, look for the description and application forms in the September National Bulletin and on the Web site. There is no limit to the number of schools that will be honored. You can be an inspiration and a model to others. Consider submitting your application over the summer months or in September.

Many fine accomplishments are taking place in French classrooms, but they go unnoticed. Often, the teachers are not members of the AATF. If you are reading this, you are most likely a member. Consider sharing this Bulletin with a non-member. Bring the teacher to an AATF chapter meeting. Invite the person to join the AATF. We are your advocacy link. It is only by numbers, visibility, and publicity that we can convince people that French is alive and well and that young people need to learn it. The AATF is the largest association of French teachers in the world, and we want to increase its numbers and importance. You are the key!

While I hope to meet many of you this year at SCOLT in Memphis, NECTFL in Boston, and of course in New Orleans, I invite you to keep in touch with me through your publications, newsletters, and announcements. I would like to visit as many chapters as possible during my tenure as President, which is already almost half over. Do let me know when and where I can meet with your members. If I cannot visit you, I will be glad to send a message to your chapter. We want to see French grow and prosper. You are the ones making this happen.

I wish you bonne fin d’année as you complete another year as a teacher of French or as a promoter of French. Remember that the AATF is here to help you enrich your teaching experience. Contact us, and we will be at your service. Remember too that le français, langue à multiples visages will enrich your lives and those of your students from language to culture to business to science and well into the future. Continue to promote French.

MESSAGE DE LA SECRÉTAIRE GÉNÉRALE

Chers Collègues,

Nous toucherons bientôt à la fin d’une autre année scolaire. Tous les printemps, aux congrès régionaux j’ai l’occasion de rencontrer beaucoup de membres de l’AATF. Par contre, il est étonnant le nombre de professeurs débutants et de non membres qui passent devant le stand de l’AATF.

Congrès

J’aimerais vous inviter au 87e congrès annuel qui aura lieu à la Nouvelle-Orléans du 19 au 22 juillet. Si vous connaissiez la ville, vous savez déjà que c’est une visite qui vaut la peine. Il y a de quoi vous inciter à découvrir cette ville historique avec un riche héritage francophone.

Nous sommes ravis d’annoncer que notre conférencier d’honneur sera le grand chanteur et poète cadien Zachary Richard et Denis Degagné, le PDF du Centre de la francophonie des Amériques. Ceux d’entre vous qui ont assisté au congrès d’Atlanta en 2004 se souviendront de l’extraordinaire spectacle d’ouverture que Zachary nous a offert. Pour la conférence d’ouverture, il parlera de la préservation de la langue française en Louisiane. Tout cela en dehors d’un programme où le français est à l’honneur. Consultez le programme préliminaire qui est affiché sur le site de l’AATF (www.frenchteachers.org) et qui sera mis à jour régulièrement jusqu’au congrès. Nous planifions aussi des excursions qui vous feront découvrir la région.

Ne manquez pas cette occasion de fêter le français, de partager vos expériences avec des collègues et de trouver de nouvelles astuces pédagogiques et technologiques pour la salle de classe.

Recrutement

Nos efforts de recrutement continuent. Notre recensement des professeurs de français s’est agrandi à plus de 28.000 noms. Il nous manquent encore les listes officielles pour plusieurs états, et il est temps de renouveler les listes pour ceux dont on a déjà reçu les noms. De nouveaux professeurs s’ajoutent aux listes tous les ans. Il est essentiel pour la bonne santé de notre association de contacter tous les professeurs de français quel que soit le niveau où ils enseignent. Je vous invite, à titre individuel ou par le biais de votre chapitre local, à (1) essayer d’obtenir une liste du département d’éducation de votre état; (2) de dresser une liste de toutes les universités dans votre état où le français est enseigné; et (3) d’essayer de recenser les écoles privées de votre état ou région où le français est enseigné. Puisqu’il y a des changements tous les ans et surtout de nouveaux professeurs qui arrivent, il est important de toujours mettre à jour ces listes. Même si vous n’avez qu’un nom et/ou une école, n’hésitez pas à nous le(s) communiquez à [recruit@frenchteachers.org]. Nous ferons des recherches par Internet pour retrouver une adresse complète ou le nom du professeur. Aidez-nous à promouvoir non seulement le français mais l’adhésion à l’AATF.

J’ai toujours cité le chiffre qui m’a été conté il y a bien des années de 30.000 enseignants de français aux États-Unis. Je crois qu’il y en a facilement 40.000. Aidez-nous à les identifier tous.

Promotion du français

Technologie

L’AATF s’est toujours intéressé à la technologie tant dans la salle de classe qu’au sein de notre association. Nous cherchons de façon assidue de nouveaux moyens pour communiquer avec nos membres actuels et potentiels. Nous essayons de mettre à la disposition des professeurs de français des outils pédagogiques et promotionnels et des stratégies pour l’amélioration de l’enseignement mais aussi pour la défense de programmes sous menace: (1) Advocacy Depot; (2) Advocacy Wiki; (3) YouTube Channel; (4) Facebook Page; (5) Twitter Page; (6) compte Flickr (tous à AATFrench). Servez-vous de ces ressources pour faire parler du français.

Semaine du Français

En somme, je vous souhaite une bonne fin d’année scolaire, de belles vacances d’été et une rentrée motivante et réussie.

AATF MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

The AATF is again sponsoring a membership recruitment campaign. Just as we seek to promote the study of French among our students and administrators, we must also promote membership in the AATF to all our colleagues, in particular our younger colleagues. We ask you to reinforce the benefits of belonging to a professional association to your colleagues.

How It Works

We are offering a special pay-two-get-one-free incentive to current members to recruit new members. If the current member can get two new members to join, 2014 membership will be free. The requirements are:

- the two new members’ forms with payment must be mailed together to National Headquarters with the sponsoring AATF member’s name prominently indicated;
- the current member’s preprinted renewal invoice should, if possible, accompany the two new forms;
- if the current member has already paid 2014 dues, the free membership will be applied to the next year; no refunds will be made.

If you are a teacher trainer, encourage your students who are planning a career in teaching French to join as student members. Membership forms are available on the AATF Web site (www.frenchteachers.org), or we will send membership forms to anyone who requests them.

If you have access to state or local mailing lists of French teachers or members of other language organizations, please think to forward those lists to us, and we will verify whether or not they are already members of the AATF and, if not, do a special mailing to them.

The lists must be current and must contain specifically French teachers. Please help us recruit new and veteran teachers to help the AATF continue to be a dynamic and growing organization!

FRENCH IS A GLOBAL LANGUAGE
Recently, several AATF members shared an article with us entitled “Mandarin Chinese Most Useful Business After English” by John Lauerman. The article may be accessed on line at Bloomberg News. Also, related to the article is the chart which we are reprinting on the next page called “Languages of Business.” We think that teachers will find both the article and the chart useful. Following our first awareness of this article and chart we have noticed several foreign language writers citing this same information from this article and chart. Please do go on line to read the article. Also, note that we are reproducing this chart in its entirety, with permission from the Bloomberg News Education Team Leader Lisa Wolfson. Both the article mentioned above and the chart can be found on line at [Bloomberg News, August 30, 2011].

Languages were awarded points from 0 to 100 based on position relative to each other. Points were summed to rank each language.

METHODOLOGY: To create this ranking, we first identified the 25 languages with the greatest number of native speakers, then narrowed the list to the 11 that are official languages of G20 countries. (Countries where English is the official language, or one of multiple official languages, were excluded.) We then compiled statistics from countries where each language is official. In countries with multiple official languages, statistics were included for each language. For example, Switzerland’s data were included for its three official languages: German, French and Italian.

REGION VIII: SOUTHWEST

Dans le Sud-Ouest américain, l’année 2013 a été bien occupée! Voici quelques-unes de nos activités.

Formation et développement professionnel

Les chapitres de la région ont organisé des ateliers, conférences, séminaires et journées d’immersion, souvent en collaboration avec des écoles, universités et groupes francophiles locaux dont voici quelques exemples:

- Journée de Printemps à Stanford University (Californie du Nord)
- Le Camp français (Californie du Nord)
- Ateliers pédagogiques sur le DELF et le DALF, la grammaire enseignée de façon ludique et sur comment organiser un voyage à l’étranger pour lycéens (Californie du Sud)

Nombreux sont aussi nos membres qui ont présenté leurs travaux d’enseignants et qui ont organisé des ateliers et des réunions lors de conférences dans leur état. Parmi les présentations, on Consulats de France à San Francisco et à Los Angeles. Les chapitres de la Californie du Nord et du Sud ont offert des bourses de 200$ pour faciliter la participation de leurs membres. La 3e édition de l’Université d’été à Santa Barbara aura lieu en juillet 2014.

Rencontres

En mai dernier, les membres du chapitre de l’Utah ont eu une soirée suisse chez l’habitant! Grâce à leur charmante hôtesses, les convives ont pu (re)découvrir la Suisse d’hier et d’aujourd’hui, sa présence économique dans le monde et les liens qui unissent ce pays à la France. La soirée s’est terminée avec une délicieuse raclette. Le chapitre de l’Utah a de même organisé une journée d’immersion autour de quelques parties de pétanque dans un parc de Salt Lake City et un bon déjeuner dans un restaurant français. Parmi les sujets de discussion, la French Review 86.6 sur «Le Français a-t-il un avenir aux États-Unis?» et comment renouveler l’intérêt du français dans nos communautés. Parmi ses activités annuelles, le chapitre de Californie du Sud, Quelle bonne idée !

Le Chapitre du Nouveau-Mexique projette de mettre en place un groupe qui s’appellera La Table française et dont le but sera de faciliter une plus grande cohésion entre les membres. L’idée est que les francophiles puissent se retrouver par Skype ou par Google Groups pour discuter en français, bien sûr, de thèmes proposés à l’avance.

Pour terminer…

Pamela Cort, Vice-Présidente du Chapitre de Nouveau-Mexique, a été nommée Teacher of the Year de l’état. Elle a partagé avec les membres de son chapitre, les photos de sa visite à la Maison Blanche et au côté du Président Obama. Toute la région du Sud-Ouest est très fière de ses talents d’enseignante et de sa belle réussite! Merci Pamela de faire rayonner la langue et la culture françaises jusqu’à Washington, DC !

En 2013, j’ai eu le privilège de faire deux présentations, l’une au congrès annuel du CLTA, l’autre à celui de MCLASC. Mon but était de mieux faire connaître l’AATF et les activités de ses chapitres, de recruter de nouveaux enseignants et de vous retrouver. En attendant le plaisir de rencontrer d’autres membres de la région du Sud-Ouest au Congrès annuel à la Nouvelle Orléans en juillet 2014, je vous souhaite une excellente continuation dans vos projets!

REGION IX: NORTHWEST

First of all, congratulations to the Washington/Alaska/British Columbia/Alberta Chapter for the wonderful activities that this group supports. Of note are the publication of the newsletter Le Canard déchaîné, une Soirée des amis, and wide involvement in the Washington Association of Foreign Language Teachers (WAFLT) Fall Conference. It is so nice to hear, too, that over 1000 students are involved in the Grand Concours this year and that there is a teacher from Alaska who is coordinating the Grand Concours for students there. Membership is up.

All or us are called on to do more than our share...We struggle with school boards and administrators, and we sometimes feel isolated. I truly believe that strong AATF chapters...can bring us together and provide resources and camaraderie that may sometimes seem difficult to attain.
in this chapter, and President Catherine Ousselin has been working hard to contact teachers who are not yet members. Our profound thanks to her and her team!

There were several award winners from our region in 2013, including AATF awards and recognition from other organizations. Mary Anne O’Neil (Washington/Alaska/British Columbia/Alberta) was honored with the Continued Distinguished Service Certificate by WAFLT for her “unflagging contributions” and her positive impact on the profession. I was fortunate to receive the CASE/Carnegie Baccalaureate Professor of the Year Award. As French teachers, we are lucky to do a job that allows us to express our passion and to enjoy our years in the classroom and AATF support gives us opportunities and motivation and a forum to communicate with our peers.

As in years past, much work in our Region has focused on continuing student and faculty involvement in the Grand Concours and other nationally-sponsored activities (for example, scholarship applications and awards). We are also working hard to protect the existence of weaker chapters through the recruitment of new chapter officers. Colorado/Wyoming is in a period of transition, and other chapters are experiencing difficulties in finding officers. I would like to send out a call for action in this Regional Report, to see how I can better serve you, and how we can get more activities organized in the Region IX chapters. If you have suggestions, please let me know. If you are interested in becoming a chapter officer or in other AATF work, please contact me as well. The Future Leaders Program is a wonderful way to get involved. If you are considering a leadership position, this is a place to find the information you need.

In conclusion, I recognize the challenges of AATF Chapters in Region IX. There are great distances between schools and even cities and towns. All of us are called on to do more than our share, often having several preps and mixed levels. We struggle with school boards and administrators, and we sometimes feel isolated. I truly believe that strong AATF chapters in our region can bring us together and provide resources and camaraderie that may sometimes seem difficult to attain. Please help me to revitalize the AATF in Region IX. I will do what I can—please ask.

Respectfully submitted
Ann Williams
Region IX Representative

FRENCH REVIEW ANNOUNCEMENTS

The French Review welcomes articles for a Special Issue on Francophonie(s). This Special Issue, to be published in May 2015, will be devoted to the evolving status and meanings of la francophonie. Scholars working in numerous fields are encouraged to submit articles: literature, film, cultural studies, linguistics, pedagogy. Multidisciplinary approaches are welcome. Relevant topics can include: the origins and institutionalization of la francophonie, the ways in which the French language interacts with others in the Francophone world, the concept of la littérature-monde, etc. Authors should consult our on-line Guide for Authors for the formatting requirements: [frenchreview.frenchteachers.org]. Deadline for submission: August 1, 2014.

New Rubric: Dossier pédagogique

The purpose of this rubric is to publish texts and lesson plans that can be used directly in the classroom at all levels. They will be available on-line so that teachers can easily download and/or print them from the French Review Web site. Submitted texts should be sent to the Editor in Chief [edward.ousselin@wwu.edu].

A Reminder about our shorter rubrics:

(1) Actualités du monde francophone: applications pédagogiques

Have you recently used news reports of current events in one of your classes? Did you apply a particularly effective teaching method? Do your students now know more about the Francophone world? If so, this rubric will allow you to share your experience with your colleagues.

(2) Lettrismes: le français dans tous ses états

This rubric is devoted to our endless fascination with the French language. Can you present and explain a set of words or expressions in an original way? Can you produce a drawing that will visually illustrate an idiomatic expression? If you are serious about your wordplay, share your texts and graphics with our readers.

Both of these rubrics are designed for shorter texts (between one and two thousand words). For each of them, part of the content (links, graphics, etc.) can be posted on the French Review Web site. All AATF members who have developed innovative methods to use current events in the Francophone world for teaching purposes, or who have found intriguing or playful ways to illustrate words or expressions in French, are invited to submit their texts.
What is lightweight, easy to obtain, and a must for the budget traveler? An AATF membership card! It is all of the above, and easily available to all our AATF members. Cards can be obtained for $1 along with your annual membership renewal or application. They can also be obtained by sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to National Headquarters.

Each year I request an AATF membership card for use on any future trip abroad. I have proudly used it throughout my career and appreciated each time I had the opportunity to save a bit of money. Although it is more difficult to obtain the teacher discount in Europe today, it is still a valuable tool in the economy traveler’s arsenal.

The advantage of the AATF membership card is the fact that it is written in French and thus is understandable to all. Several years ago teachers received free entrance to major French museums such as the Louvre. This is no longer the case. However, some city and departmental museums as well as private museums will grant teacher discounts upon seeing the AATF membership card. I always ask whenever I visit any museum in France and hope for the best. Sometimes the policy is to grant full admission; other times I am granted admission at a reduced price. Some bookstores in France also grant a 10% reduction to teachers upon seeing a card.

My French friends have been amazed at the savings I’ve accrued in various museums in France. Even my teacher friends are surprised when I show my card, as they often are not aware of the possibility of receiving teacher discounts. My advice is to plan ahead and enjoy this benefit of AATF membership.

HAVE YOU MOVED OR PLANNING TO MOVE? LET US KNOW.

AATF publications are mailed Second Class. The U.S. Post Office does not forward second class mail unless you have paid for this service. If you move without informing us of your new address, the Post Office destroys the lost issues and charges AATF $$.80 per item. This amounts to hundreds of dollars per year in charges in addition to the cost of the destroyed material and replacing it. Therefore, if you have moved or intend to move, please let us know your new address by returning this form to National Headquarters as indicated. Changes can also be emailed to [address@frenchteachers.org].

SOCIÉTÉ HONORAIRE DE FRANÇAIS ON THE WEB

One workshop is included if you select the Full Registration Option (which also includes a Walking Tour, Luncheon, and Banquet). All workshops will take place on Saturday, July 19 from 1:30-4:30 p.m.

le samedi 19 juillet de 13h30 à 16h30

W101: The AP French Language and Culture Course and Exam: What Do the Results Reveal?

Intervenante: Deanna Scheffer, St Augustine High School (FL)

The presenter will use student samples of the Interpersonal and Presentation Speaking tasks from the 2014 AP French Language and Culture Exam to train teachers how to score their own students’ work according to the exam’s Scoring Guidelines in order to examine various issues that are revealed at the AP Reading. In so doing, we will provide concrete suggestions for improving student performance on the Guided Conversation and Cultural Comparison tasks which have proven to be the lowest scoring. A discussion about various strategies to integrate within the course will follow. ($30; pre-registration required)

W102: Made in Louisiana: Supports for French Immersion

Intervenants: Terri Hammatt, Louisiana Department of Education; Michelle Haj-Broussard, McNeese State University; Dana Kress, Centenary College of Louisiana; et Nicole Boudreaux, Lafayette Parish School System (LA)

French immersion has existed in Louisiana since the early 1980s. The breadth and depth of experience in this domain has produced some of the most knowledgeable educators in the field. Louisiana French immersion savoir-faire has led the state Francophone Team (comprised of the Louisiana Department of Education, CODOFIL, and the Louisiana Consortium of Immersion Schools with the support of the Consulate of France in New Orleans) to develop numerous tools for French immersion teaching and learning (no cost; no pre-registration required).

W103: Thinking About Syncing? Digital Storytelling and Presentation Tools for Language Learners and Teachers

Intervenante: Catherine Ousselin, Mount Vernon High School (WA)

Working from the perspective of supporting the National Standards for Foreign Language Learning and the Common Core Standards, participants will engage in an interactive exploration of Web and mobile tools, pertinent digital storytelling, and intra/interpersonal presentation applications using the SAMR (Substitution, Augmentation, Modification, and Redefinition) model. The presenter will share examples of each resource, guide participants through tool use, and provide time for discussion and collaboration. Emphasis will be placed on learner skills, growth, and assessment. ($30; pre-registration required)

W104: Advocating for French at All Levels

Intervenants: Jayne Abrate, Secrétaire générale de l’AATF; Ann Sunderland, Présidente honoraire de l’AATF; et Robert T-Bob Peckham, Président de la Commission pour la Défense du français

Les intervenants présenteront des scénarios et des stratégies pour la défense du français et des langues étrangères aux niveaux local, de l’état et national. Il s’agira non seulement de préserver des programmes existants mais de soutenir l’enseignement des langues en général et de créer un climat politique et économique qui favorise cet enseignement (no cost; no pre-registration required).

W105: Allons au Cinema: AATF Presents a New Film Volume

Intervenantes: Joyce Beckwith et Doliann Hurtig, Rédactrices de la publication, Christine Gaudry-Hudson, Millersville University; Nathalie Degroult, Siena College, et Michèle Bissière, University of North Carolina at Charlotte

The Editors of the new AATF film volume, Allons au Cinema: Promoting French Through Films, will explain in detail how this project was developed, the selection of films, and how to best present these films in a classroom setting to maximize student involvement and adhere to National Standards. They will be joined by several authors who contributed to the volume. Clips of films will be shown, followed by an interactive discussion of relevant themes for today’s student population. ($30; pre-registration required; includes a copy of the book).

W106: L’Immeubles: Global Simulation Leading to Real-Life Skills

Intervenante: Madeline Turan, Stony Brook University (NY)

This project encourages students to function in all four language skills. Based upon the book by Debyser, students are challenged to create a community in which they need to perform in French. The presenter has used this project at all levels from middle school through the university level. Ways to modify the concept will be demonstrated, and examples of materials will be provided. Participants will receive a memory stick containing all the examples and templates. ($30; pre-registration required)

SPECIAL FULL REGISTRATION OFFER

Sign up for the Full Registration Rate of $375. This includes registration plus the Welcome Luncheon, Awards Banquet, a Walking Tour, and a Workshop.

2012 CHICAGO CONVENTION PROCEEDINGS NOW AVAILABLE

The second volume of Selected Proceedings from the AATF convention, now available through the AATF Web site, reflects the quality and diversity of the papers presented in Chicago in 2012. We are pleased to make these excellent contributions available, demonstrating once again the AATF’s commitment to the dissemination of knowledge about the teaching and learning of French.

The articles selected offer insights into areas of interest being explored by colleagues from the U.S. and abroad. The convention in Chicago was a meeting place for the exchange of ideas, techniques, and materials, and this volume reflects the wide range of topics featured in the program.

The multifaceted nature of this volume attests to the richness of our field and to the dedication of our colleagues. Our sincere thanks go to those who presented at the convention, to those who submitted their work to this project, and to those who served as reviewers for this volume.

The proceedings can be accessed at [www.proceedings.frenchteachers.org]; ID AATF2012. The password is Chicago. Enter this information slowly, or the site won’t recognize it.

SALUT LES JEUNES!

Je peux lire!

Teachers are reluctant to introduce the written language too early to beginning language learners to avoid the interference of English phonetics with the French spelling. We like to be sure the sounds are firmly in place orally before exposing the students to the written word. In addition, our youngest language learners are just beginning to read in their native language. Pictures permit students to "read" with accuracy without the common errors of pronunciation (pure vowels, "th" as "t," silent final consonants, for example). Creating their own little books gives young children the chance to proudly "read" at home what they are learning at school. The example below is that of un petit livre de la météo, but it is a convenient format to use to reinforce any vocabulary or to tell a simplified story. It works especially well at the beginning of the school year with personal information in a book entitled "MOI." (Je suis un garçon. Je m'appelle Jacques. J'ai sept ans. Mon anniversaire c'est le 7 janvier. J'aime le chocolat, etc.)

This sample includes the written French for older students who have already worked on the expressions in class, but they can be erased for the younger students. These drawings are for the most part taken from le Grand Concours de français FLES, but the older students may prefer to start with the written phrase and draw their own pictures for their books. Many students already know how to make these little books from other classes. It just looks hard, but it's not!

MATERIALS NEEDED: paper, colored pencils or crayons, and scissors.

PROCEDURE: Copy image onto full size 8 1/2" X 11" paper.

- Fold in half crosswise.
- Cut through fold ONLY on the dotted line.

Unfold and refold in half the other way lengthwise.

- Fold on all solid lines to create book pages.
- Push outside edges towards the center to open where you cut.

Final folds will make sense following page numbers 1-8 to create booklet with “QUEL TEMPS FAIT-IL?” as title on the outside.
Il fait froid
Il fait mauvais
Il fait chaud
Il fait beau
Il fait du vent
Il pleut
Il neige

Quel temps fait-il?
CLASSROOM ACTIVITY

Although this activity specifically uses clothing to provide information needed to conduct the exercise, it can be adapted for use with other categories. The activity reinforces speaking and listening comprehension in French; it reviews the partitive construction, the pronoun en, and placement prepositions such as à droite, à gauche, entre, sous, etc.

In order to conduct this exercise the teacher must first provide each student with a clothing picture. There will be only one exact match for each picture used in the activity, and the goal is for each student to find the picture which is the exact match to the one he/she possesses. Although there will be only one exact match for each picture, there can be many very close approximations in order to render the activity fairly complex. The teacher can create several pictures containing the same items of clothing, and the same number of pieces per item but arrange them differently in each picture.

Each of the pictures contains two neckties, three hats, four pair of pants, and five dresses, but each picture is different because of the way in which the items are arranged. The pictures are all close approximations of one another and this similarity makes achieving the goal of finding an exact picture match relatively difficult. The similarity demands a thorough questioning and answering procedure in French; simple questions and yes/no or short numerical answers are not sufficient to complete the exercise.

After the teacher has chosen or drawn the pictures and distributed them to the students, he/she will review the French vocabulary for placement prepositions and for all the clothing items the students have had. He/she will also review the partitive construction and the use of en with numbers before explaining the ultimate goal of the exercise.

The students begin the activity by circulating and choosing a partner. Student A looks at his/her picture, selects an article of clothing depicted in it, and asks Student B if he/she has that article. All questions and answers must be given in French. Student B then consults his/her picture and responds with either “J’en ai;” “J’ai un(e)/des [article of clothing requested];” “Je n’en ai pas;” or “Je n’ai pas de [article requested].”

If the answer is “Je n’en ai pas” or “Je n’ai pas de [clothing requested],” both students seek other partners because there is only one exact match and obviously this partner does not have the correct picture. At no point in this exercise do students visually compare their pictures. If Student B answers “Oui, j’en ai” or “J’ai un(e)/des [clothing requested],” Student A then asks “Combien de [article of clothing] as-tu?” Student B looks at his/her picture and provides the answer. If the number of the specific clothing items is not the same in each picture, both students seek other partners. If the numbers are the same, Student B consults his/her picture and asks Student A “As-tu un(e)/des [a different item of clothing]?” The questioning procedure continues until each student finds a partner whose picture contains the same distribution of clothing items as the one contained in his/her picture; both illustrations reflect the same clothes and the same number of pieces for each item.

The next step in the activity requires each student to discover his/her exact picture match regarding the placement of clothing items. Student A asks his/her current partner questions which will pinpoint the position of one of the clothing items in the partner’s picture. Possible questions could include “Quel est le premier vêtement à gauche?” “Quel vêtement est à droite du/de la/des [specific clothing article]?” Student B provides appropriate answers, and the previous questioning procedure is used—if the pictures are similar, the students alternate questions and answers; if they are not similar, the students interview other partners until they find the one person who has the matching picture.

After Student A and Student B have completed the questioning procedure and believe that their pictures are an exact match, they take them to the teacher for confirmation. If the match is confirmed, the students sit down to remove themselves from the circulating students who are still trying to find the correct partner. If the picture is not confirmed, the students rejoin the other students. If there is an uneven number of students attending class the day the activity takes place, the teacher may choose to let one of the students perform the confirmation task.

Simplified Variation

The activity just described can be complex and require more than the amount of time allotted to complete the exercise if the teacher has chosen elaborate pictures.

It can be greatly simplified by eliminating multiple arrangement patterns of the same clothing. This elimination will remove the need for extended conversation; the students will still have opportunities to practice speaking and listening comprehension skills [and even the partitive construction, but the questions and answers will be simpler and more formulaic]. The teacher can also increase the clothing categories, creating a greater diversification of pictures which will make it possible to eliminate a possible picture match quickly. This elimination of extremely similar pictures and the addition of extra clothing pictures can render the activity more suitable for lower level classes and require less time for completion in class.

VIDEO/ANIMATION CONTEST

Deadline: Received by November 15, 2014.

Rationale: The AATF Executive Council decided that teachers at the middle school and high school would appreciate an activity that students could work on during National French Week (November 5-11, 2014). Since many students create their own videos and blogs, the Council thought that this contest would bring in students and teachers who are interested in technology.

To Submit: See National French Week link on AATF Web site for instructions regarding format and where to upload the video/animation. Entries can be made using Glogster, Animoto, or embedded Web tool or shareable app of the student’s choice. Please visit the AATF site to find a list of the suggested Web tools. If using these sites, teachers should choose the free educator subscription or have students set up their own accounts. The project should be viewable by the judges, but the projects should be marked “Unlisted” until the awards have been announced. Please include a URL to the project in the registration form. The contest judges may request that you share the embed code for the project after the awards have been announced. For questions on Web tool or app usage, please contact Catherine Ousselin at [catherineku72@gmail.com]. For ideas on past submissions, visit the National French Week blog site at [http://nfwposter.blogspot.com/].

Guidelines: The video/animation must relate to the contest theme. Minimum length 30 seconds. Maximum length: 2 minutes. No copyrighted figures (i.e. Snoopy, Astérix) accepted. Videos with references to alcohol, drugs, or violence will not be accepted. Each entry must be the original work of a current French student or group of students whose teacher is an AATF member for 2014. There is a limit of five entries per school. The video/animation must include the names of the school, French teacher, and students who contributed to the project.

Competition divisions: (1) Intermediate: Grades 6-8, and (2) Secondary: Grades 9-12

Judging Criteria: Visual impact, relevance to the theme, and originality. All videos become the property of the AATF and may be used in AATF publications or materials. All participants in the video competition will receive certificates. The winning videos will be posted on the AATF Web site. First, second, and third place winners of each division will receive prizes. Go to [www.frenchteachers.org/nfw/contests.htm] for complete instructions and to [http://nfwposter.blogspot.com/] to see some past submissions.

Fear not the “selfie;” embrace it, and channel your students’ passion of the post toward the development of speaking and vocabulary skills. As difficult as it is for many teachers to accept, students are going to use their mobile devices in class. Why not look at the devices as a tool that can engage them through social media they know well and that will allow them to develop and share their linguistic knowledge in a teen-friendly way? While there are some initial steps to prepare the students for using a social media site, the results may change your opinion of the ubiquitous self-portraits and random shots.

I had originally hesitated using social media outlets such as Twitter (140 character messages), Vine (six-second videos), and Instagram (pictures and 15-second videos) with my classes even though teachers in my Twitter PLN (Professional Learning Network) were discussing the positive results that they experienced with them. My reasons included privacy, appropriate behaviors, and thoughtful, pedagogical use of the media. I did not see the attraction of continuous posting of uninteresting pictures—especially “selfies.” Although I am highly active on Twitter, I prefer posting my ideas in words and not through pictures. My interest in using Instagram became more serious when our school had a bomb threat, and we spent several hours on the football field. The students took hundreds of pictures within the first 15 minutes using a hashtag ( #) chosen by the “hive.” A hashtag is the symbol used on social media sites to denote a theme. After school, I searched the hashtag and found the pictures that the students took. The majority were self-portraits with friends; others were 15-second videos.

While teens still text, many more share their thoughts with pictures and short, tagged phrases sent to their followers. The pictures and videos from the field were creative, a bit silly, and sometimes offensive. These are adolescents, and they feel comfortable within the medium to express themselves with little concern to etiquette or spelling. Thankfully, many social media users make their accounts private so that only their followers can see the pictures. For those who do not, anyone can explore their pictures by clicking on the user’s name. I learned an important lesson while going through the posts: Do not look at or follow your students’ accounts! You do not want to see what they post, and it can change your opinion of a student. Despite the slightly disturbing discoveries in this teen-laden territory, I understood the communicative power of these posts in their lives. The next question was, “How can teachers make social media work in the World Language class?”

World Language teachers often check student comprehension of a word or expression through drawings. A quick sketch of “Il a froid” is easy to assess and allows students to demonstrate their comprehension through non-verbal methods. However, there are students who do not like to draw—I am one of them. To reach out to these students, we have used our class iPods (and personal student devices) along with Google images or other image repositories. This approach worked well, but it was a passive exercise. Students simply entered the expression in French and were provided with an image. My goal was to make the exercise more direct so that they produced the idea of the definition. We used our class iPods or personal phones and students e-mailed their pictures to our class Gmail account. A typical vocabulary exercise would be emotions and adjectives.

Students received a list of 5-10 words that we had covered and were asked to take pictures of the words. They could draw a scene, or they could create a “scene” with their partners. To respect student privacy, I asked families to sign on-line agreements that allowed me to post their likeness and work without their names. This system worked well, but it didn’t have the same effect as the instant post functions found on Instagram, Vine, and Snapchat. What I have learned from adolescents is that they want to connect instantly and share what they like.

The transition from static pictures on the iPods to the social media sites involved creating a French class account, installing the apps to the iPods, and connecting each device to the class account. I chose the username “mvhsfrancais” for Twitter, Vine, and Instagram so that students could easily find them on line. Each class discussed the ground rules in English. I insisted on the consequences of any unsuitable behav-or photos—a discipline reference and loss of technology use in class.

Guidelines: No bathroom shots. No pictures of “personal” body parts. Always ask permission before photographing another person. No deleting other students’ posts. No following other accounts with the class account. Use only the hashtags (#) supplied for the lesson. I was worried that there would be some inappropriate slang used. (YOLO, Swag, etc.), but I am able to monitor the students’ posts as they take their pictures either on my iPad or on the computer. Any post that did not meet the requirements, I deleted immediately.

The first posts were made by the French 1 students using Vine. Vines are six-second videos, so precision was important. The students presented a partner by describing hair and eye color and his or her favorite activities. I set a time limit of 15 minutes for filming. Six seconds proved to be almost impossible for French 1. Vines require quick speech that these students did not have. Their attempts were brave, but we decided to try Instagram and its 15-second videos. As we watched the videos together, students commented on everyone’s errors and successes. A slight competitive attitude arose between sixth and seventh periods. The groups wanted to garner the most “likes” on their videos, so they shared them with their friends.

A typical vocabulary-based assignment is modeled on the challenges that are found on Instagram through the #igers thematic sharing groups. A challenge (or défi) might be “bleu.” Participants post pictures that relate to the theme with the #bleu hashtag and the post that receives the most likes wins the challenge. I have used an acrostics-style challenge where each letter of a word becomes a picture or short video. For Valentine’s day, we did VALENTIN during which, “amour” and “amoureux” were popular posts for the letter A. For the lower-level students, we come up with the list of words together. Third-year and AP develop their own lists. The theme could be emotions, idiomatic expressions, or school life (verbs, objects, classes, etc.). Each picture has the vocabulary hashtag (#triste) and our class hashtag (#mvhsfrancais). One AP group produced a 15-second video detailing the conjugation of an “ER” verb. Another group explained masculine and feminine adjectives. The challenge can be done during school, or it could be assigned over the weekend. Students would use their own devices and the class hashtag so that you can find the posts. To search a post, you will need to use a mobile device with the Instagram (or Vine) app. These social media outlets were designed to be mobile-based and are therefore somewhat limited on their Web sites.

It is important to not jump into the social media arena without preparation. Students have no experience using social media for a school-related purpose. For them, this is an open arena where people post anything they want, not a way to practice a foreign language. If you plan to use it, inform yourself on digital citizenship, talk to your district technology coach or principal. Develop your expectations, and share them with your students. By using solid information and practices, teachers will provide support in developing knowledgeable and responsible social media users. There are curriculum guides available on line to help you learn how to discuss digital citizenship and privacy issues. Social media is powerful. People have lost jobs due to their posts, but revolutions have been organized as well. Social media can be daunting, but it can also be a new path for connecting our learners with the Francophone world.

If you are interested in organizing a social media account or experience with your classes, please contact me at [catherineousselin72@gmail.com].

Should we focus on form? Communicative competence? Are these new ideas or reworkings of centuries-old practices? Every discipline has a history and a historical context, including the teaching of French. A scholarly association in Europe founded in 1987 has been dedicated to this history. But what about here in North America? The Société internationale pour l’Histoire du Français Langue Étrangère ou Seconde (SIHFLES) offers conferences and publication opportunities where this history might be pursued. Members of the AATF are warmly invited to join their European colleagues in investigating this history.

Already this association has explored the teaching of French in many contexts around the globe. The Documents pour l’histoire du français langue étrangère ou seconde, the scholarly journal of the SIHFLES, has more than 50 issues, some of which are available online at [http://dhlules.revues.org]. The research in Documents touches on many scientific disciplines and social practices: linguistic and education policies (in different countries at different times), didactic and methodological aspects related to theories of teaching and learning, the study of language teachers and the context of their work, the evolution of institutions, the study of reference manuals (dictionaries, grammar books, reading books, etc.) including questions related to their inventory and analysis, etc.

A major part of this effort is rediscovering teaching manuals of all sorts, collections of dialogues, guides to grammar and pronunciation, dictionaries, treatises on language pedagogy. Hundreds have been described in the pages of this journal, and many more are waiting to be discovered.

The teaching of French to English speakers has a vibrant tradition with a wide variety of teaching methods and ideas. It probably started even before the Norman Conquest but certainly grew more robust in the later Middle Ages and the Renaissance. One of the early French masters for Anglophones, Claude de Sainliens, may have been the model for the character of Holofernes in Shakespeare’s Love’s Labor’s Lost.

What then of language teaching here in North America? A starting point for the history of teaching methodologies is simply knowing what texts were used, such as Thomas Blair’s Some short and easy rules teaching the true pronunciation of the French Language, published in Boston in 1720. We might also look at the status of French in different areas and during different periods in our history. Who are the teachers, and who are the students? How has the institutional structure of language teaching affected what we do? the research questions we ask?

The goal of the SIHFLES is “to promote the history of French foreign language education in and outside of France, as well as language education in general, by uniting researchers, publishers, the findings of their work, stimulating new research, as well as opening new branches of university study, and the creation of a center for documents and special archives.” The SIHFLES currently links more than 200 members (including researchers, educators, and teachers of French as a foreign or second language), from about 20 different countries. Every year the Society co-organizes a Colloquium presenting research on a specific topic. The Web site [http://fles.asso.free.fr/sihfles/] is an excellent resource for contacts and exchanges between researchers, as well as a vehicle for the publication of studies in the field.

The Scientific committee welcomes the submission of articles for the journal. Please send 300-word abstracts (with seven key words) to the editors: Marie-Christine Kok-Escalle: [m.c.j.kok-escalle@uu.nl] and Despina Provata: [dprovata@fri.uoa.gr]

For further information, please contact the General Secretary Karene Sanchez Summerer (Leiden University, The Netherlands): [K.Sanchez@hum.leidenuniv.nl] or Douglas Kibbee (University of Illinois): [dkibbee@illinois.edu].

WHY STUDY FRENCH?: AN INNOVATIVE WAY TO GET THE MESSAGE OUT TO THE COMMUNITY

Many French teachers find themselves masters of marketing, feverishly advocating for their programs (and the topic of the May 2013 French Review). Small struggling programs fight extinction in the face of penny-pinching administrators or policy makers who might understand internationalization as offering introductory Arabic or Chinese or simply Spanish as their sole world language. The luncheon program described below is only a piece of the multifaceted marketing campaign a teacher can wage to keep her French program both visible and enticing to potential students (and parents) (see Meyer, 2004 and Meyer, 2007). It proved surprisingly effective with the attending business faculty and was warmly received by all who attended. The content of the presentation itself marries common “understandings” of what is French and French culture with images from not only France but other French-speaking areas and hard cold facts that prove the utility of French for world business (and culture). In order to help you recreate this successful marketing event, this article first addresses facts that prove the utility of French for the world economy and hard cold realities that we visit in the first two days (le Louvre, la Sainte Chapelle, Notre-Dame de Paris, le Monument des déportés, l’Institut du Monde arabe and, finally, a meal on the rue de la Harpe). These images target more famous monuments with carefully chosen images that reveal the multicultural composition of Paris. Images of our students enjoying trips to Burkina Faso, to Senegal and to Quebec really solidify how French goes beyond the hexagon.

The next ten slides address the value of French for potential jobs, as an official language of many important organizations, for the world economy, for investments both in France and in the U.S., and for science and technology. While most of the attendees have no idea how important the French language and culture are to the world economy, it is not hard to come up with compelling statistics on how important French is as a language in the U.S. and in the world. France is the second most frequently taught language in the world after the U.S. The Organisation Internationale de la Francophonie’s Web site discusses how many countries have French as an official language and how French is spoken on five continents. The [www.invest-in-france.org/us/why-choose-france/a-country-with-a-global-outlook.html] Web site provides evidence of France’s role in the global economy (fifth-largest economy in the world with a GDP of $2.751 billion US in 2011), its role in the tourist industry and as a recipient of foreign direct investment, etc. France’s global footprint reaches far indeed. (See [www.invest-in-france.org/Medias/Publications/1585/Invest-In-France-13.pdf] for more information). French, along with English, is the official working language of the United Nations, UNESCO, NATO, the European Community, the International Red Cross, and many other organizations (see Richard Shryock for a more complete list). A recent listing of international jobs (12/01/09) distributed by the U.S. State Department noted that 92 specifically required or preferred French, 36 Spanish, 7 Arabic, and 1 Chinese. My Business School colleagues were stunned by some of these statistics. The Bureau of International Organization Affairs of the U.S. Department of State (October 2011) also required more French than Spanish and Arabic combined when hiring employees. The presentation slides then transition into the economics of French and France, and in particular, our trading relationship with the province of Quebec and exports to Canada and other French-speaking countries. In 2008, notes Shryock, France’s economy ranked fifth in the world after the U.S., Japan, China, and Germany. The trade between France and the U.S. and investments in France has increased over the last decade as well. And, finally, France’s role in Science and Technology (research, exports, high tech production, nuclear fusion, etc.) is impressive and provides good reason for students to consider the essential combination of French and science (“French: The Most Practical Foreign Language.” (Shryock, [www.flil.edu/french/whyfrench.html]; and “Speaking to Le Monde”). The final two slides return to the visual. The first displays a clipping from the Aubusson local newspaper describing a luxury hotel (from a personal e-mail) and featuring a photo of its staff including a former student who worked there after teaching English through the French Government English Teaching Assistant program (we send 1-2 graduates per year). The second shows the colorful image of many Francophone flags [http://anglesqueville-eco. spip.ac-rouen.fr/spip.php?article231]. Their large number leaves a lasting impression on the audience. In short, this presentation connects French language study to global success and provides the audience with what Alexander calls “a more globalized perspective” created by “building bridges between disciplines,” and between the university and the community (Alexander 36).

PowerPoint presentation

A twenty-minute presentation whets the appetites of your guests, not only for the French menu that follows, but for learning French and French-speaking culture. Given the number of guests (in this case, almost 110) and the lack of knowledge of who will sign up for the presentation/lunch, a catchy, fun beginning seems appropriate. The presentation described below begins with the question: “French—What is it?” accompanied by colorful images of the cliché views of what French means to many (first food, in part to highlight the menu): cheese, wine, crème brûlée, a baguette, onion soup, coq au vin. More images with accompanying text follow: fashion, men in berets, celebrities, celebrity politicians, Chanel No. 5, and then a cheeky “that all smells good.” The presentation goes on to ask what is traditional French culture? Slides with art (a student in front of a Monet painting), literature (images of famous novels), music clips (Carla Bruni, Victoria Vox, Youssou N’Dour) propose answers. Then, due to the date of the luncheon (immediately preceding Mardi gras), a colorful explanation of what it is, when it falls, and what the three main colors represent helped the guests to “laisser les bons temps rouler!” and to smile.

The next section of the presentation features student travels. As I frequently lead a “January in Paris” course, images of smiling students in front of different monuments and in our Paris hotel help promote that course. I then introduce some collages of some of my favorite spots that we visit in the first two days (le Louvre, la Sainte Chapelle, Notre-Dame de Paris, le Monument des déportés, l’Institut du Monde arabe and, finally, a meal on the rue de la Harpe). These images target more famous monuments with carefully chosen images that reveal the multicultural composition of Paris. Images of our students enjoying trips to Burkina Faso, to Senegal and to Quebec really solidify how French goes beyond the hexagon.

Luncheon Logistics

The University Union hosted the French Luncheon. The menu and price breakdown as well as ticket sales are handled through their staff. The date must work with their staff and the largest set of rooms must be available to accommodate the many large tables needed for the guests. February 17, 2013 was an excellent choice as it closely followed Valentine’s Day (and for some, their idea of French is the language of love) and pre-
The chef added baked haddock with a béarnaise sauce as an alternate to the coq au vin. Coordinating the menu with the chef takes time—the chef enjoys showing off his culinary skills and has his own idea on what French food should be, but our combined menu was well-received. Reservations are required for the meal with special rates for students, faculty and staff, and the community/learning in retirement. Tables for 6-10 can be reserved for special groups which added to a convivial atmosphere.

Marketing the luncheon combines many efforts. Graphic design students propose images for the poster, and the graphics department produces the actual posters and invitations. Faculty, staff, and students receive invitations in their mailbox as well as via e-mail. A weekly e-mail listing events that goes to every campus e-mail repeats the invitation several times. Meanwhile, we send out invitations to the Learning in Retirement program, Green Bay Homemakers Club and, in this case, the local French group, the Amicale française. We also promote the luncheon through Web announcements and posters placed throughout campus and student housing.

The luncheon itself is quite a production. In addition to the PowerPoint presentation and carefully selected menu, the presenter can play French music before the presentation, during lunch and after. The University Union staff decorated the tables with flowers and with French-themed decorations. French program and study abroad brochures decorated each table as well. Throughout the event there were door prizes (from basketball tickets to flowers and small tokens from the bookstore) which were announced by the emcee, a student specializing in communications. The French luncheon served to connect our French program with both the university and the wider community.

More importantly, using vibrant images to challenge stereotypes of French culture along with personal photos of French program activities, and concrete statistics about the economic and technological vitality of France, the luncheon improved perceptions of the role and value of French and French studies at our institution and attracted a far-reaching audience to spread the word.

NOUVELLES DE LA COMMISSION SUR LA COMPÉTENCE CULTURELLE

Les co-présidentes de la Commission vous invitent à collaborer aux deux projets de la Commission.

Projet No. 1 (Michèle Bissière): Mutualisation de ressources pédagogiques pour enseigner la France contemporaine et les cultures francophones [http://culture.frenchteachers.org]

Le but de ce projet est de mettre en commun des articles de presse récents, accompagnés de fiches pédagogiques, à utiliser dans des cours de langue et de culture. Les textes sur la France et les pays francophones seront regroupés en catégories telles que la famille, la géographie, l’immigration, la politique, la religion, le sport, le travail, etc. Le projet vise à remédier au manque de documents récents dans les manuels de langue et de culture et à faciliter le travail des enseignants, car la recherche et la préparation de tels documents demande un investissement de temps important.

En collaborant à ce projet, les membres de l’AATF auront accès à des textes variés qui leur permettront de suivre l’évolution de la société avec leurs étudiants/élèves.

Projet No. 2 (Marie-Luce Schein): La France «multiculturale» au travers de l’histoire, de la culture, et de la politique [http://culturecom.frenchteachers.org]

L’idée de ce projet est de donner aux enseignants des occasions multiples de se pencher sur la diversité culturelle en France dans tous ses aspects et sur la problématique de l’immigration et de l’intégration de façon à envisager non seulement des projets de recherche personnels mais surtout de créer des occasions pour nos apprenants de découvrir la diversité culturelle. Cette problématique touche tous les aspects traditionnels des institutions françaises comme l’éducation, le travail, le logement, la santé, la politique, etc.

Cette exploration mènera aux grandes questions de l’immigration mais s’attacherà à démontrer la diversité culturelle en France dans les domaines suivants: (a) la littérature pour adultes et juniors; (b) l’art; (c) la danse; (d) la musique; (e) la chanson; (f) la cuisine.

Pour participer, consultez les consignes sur les sites des deux projets. Si vous désirez recevoir des nouvelles de la Commission, inscrivez-vous auprès des co-présidentes, Michèle Bissière, UNC Charlotte [mhbi ssie@uncc.edu] et Marie-Luce Schein, Texas Christian University [m.schein@tcu.edu].
MIDDLE SCHOOL COMMISSION SEEKING AUTHORS

The AATF Commission on Middle Schools is actively seeking teachers who would like to help in creating a hands-on volume of activities to accompany authentic children's stories. Contributors will be sent a template to follow and will be assisted as they compile their activities. Final formatting will be done by the Commission Chair prior to publication of the volume.

In order to help those who are considering participating in this project, here are the steps to follow to prepare a story for publication in the AATF Middle School Manual:

- Choose an authentic children's story from any Francophone country and please let me know what you have chosen in order to avoid any duplications.
- Page 1
  a. Find a free graphic for your story;
  b. Record the title, author, publication information, and the ISBN number;
  c. Write a short summary of your story in English;
- d. List the main vocabulary and grammatical structures addressed in the story.
- Pages 2-5+
  a. Create a minimum of five activities for your story; trying whenever possible not to repeat activities that have already been done (Please check with me before preparing an activity);
  b. Give the activity a name and include a small copyright free image to go with each activity;
  c. List all supplies needed for the activity;
  d. Write out clearly all instructions for doing the activity;

SOCIÉTÉ HONORAIRES DE FRANÇAIS

The establishment of a chapter of the Société Honoraire de Français offers several benefits to a secondary French program. It provides an opportunity to recognize outstanding scholarship in the study of French language through selection for membership, the placement of a special seal on the graduate's diploma, the wearing of a blue/white/red cord (or white cord) at graduation, and the right to wear the official emblem/pin of the honor society. The chapter provides a vehicle for focusing activities around French language and literature and also for encouraging member participation in the annual writing contest as well as application for the annual travel grants. There is the opportunity for students to serve as officers, directing the induction ceremony, or leading other chapter events. Information is available from Jessica Nelson, Executive Secretary SHF, AATF, Mailcode 4510, Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, IL 62901; phone: 607-821-2120; fax: (607) 453-5733; e-mail: [shf@frenchteachers.org]. or from the AATF Web site at [www.frenchteachers.org/shf].

USING FILM SHORTS IN THE CLASSROOM: DEMAIN LA VEILLE

Recently, a committee of the Executive Council of the Virginia Chapter has completed the first Teacher’s Guide for a film short entitled Demain la Veille (Back to the Future) by Julien Lecat and Sylvain Pioutaz. Synopsis of Demain la Veille

This film follows a seemingly normal guy named Bob—however, there is nothing normal about Bob’s world. He lives in an alternative universe where everything moves in reverse. The clocks tick backward, death is birth, people grow young rather than old, and knowledge is not learned but erased. One day, Bob begins to do everything “forward” and in doing so he becomes a social outcast who will be aggressively pursued by the reality police. Will he succeed in escaping their control, or will he be caught and brainwashed back into acting and thinking like the others? (In French with English subtitles)

If you are interested in purchasing the film and receiving a copy of the Teacher’s Guide for Demain la Veille, please contact Amy deGraff at [adegraff@rmc.edu]. (Price: $25, includes film, Teacher’s Guide, and shipping. If you already own the film, you can purchase the Teacher’s Guide for $10).

CONTRIBUTIONS NEEDED

We are looking for brief ready-to-use teaching units (12-20 pages) for inclusion on the AAAT Store. Submissions will be reviewed by a committee of teachers for accuracy, usefulness, and pedagogical soundness before being accepted for online publication.

Units will be posted in downloadable pdf format and can be duplicated for use in the classroom by AAAT members. Costs will range from $5-$10, depending on length.

To contribute a unit, e-mail the text as one file in either Word or pdf format to [abra te@frenchteachers.org]. Be sure and indicate the targeted level in terms of French and age.

The first such document is now available. Entitled “Exercices pour accompagnier Le Ballon rouge, le livre par Albert Lamorisse,” was contributed by Jacqueline Thomas, Texas A&M University-Kingsville, former AAAT Region VII Representative. To obtain a copy, go to the AAAT Web site at [www.frenchteachers.org].

AATF COMMISSION ON HIGH SCHOOLS

The goal of the Commission is to facilitate the sharing of lessons and materials for middle school and high school students that reflect the three modes of communication: interpretive, interpersonal, and presentational. We know that many teachers have developed excellent lessons for all levels of French that are thematic and develop critical thinking skills. Now is the time to share your excellent work with other teachers who are looking for more creative ways of presenting their content. Please consider submitting your lesson plans to Anne Jensen, Commission Chair, at annejensen@att.net. On the Web site there is a five-step lesson plan template to ensure consistency in lesson plan format submissions. We hope that the Web site will become a place where teachers will find a variety of lessons and ideas for their classes.
